PREFACE.

In a collection of the extent and variety of the one here offered, there will always be found a multitude of coins that cannot be separately described without expending the Catalogue unduly and unprofitably. I have found it necessary, in many instances, to make up lots consisting of numerous pieces. This has been done to afford an opportunity for any who may desire to buy in series or in quantities, and to save cost of Catalogue as well. Such lots have all been fairly described. No defaced or worthless coins have been catalogued.

An important part of this collection is the Ancient Coins. Among them will be found many rare and valuable ones, as, for instance, the Great Bronze Coin of Caligula, with his three sisters on the reverse; G. B. of Nero, of the Annona Augusta type, exceedingly fine; G. B., of Vespasian, Judea Capta type; G. B., of Pertinax, and many others in silver and in bronze. The Greek Autonomus and Regal Coins are especially interesting. Great care has been taken to make the attributions and the descriptions of the Ancient Coins accurate in all respects. Mr. Gaston L. Feuardent has done me the favor to examine them all and compare them with the Catalogue, and he pronounces it to be critically correct and the coins genuine antiques.

The American series is replete with desirable coins in fine, uncirculated and proof condition. The Foreign Silver Coins, Foreign Crowns, etc., are worthy of careful attention, and the offering of Medals is unusually large, in great variety and very attractive. It is needless to point out here interesting pieces. I must refer collectors to the Catalogue itself, and I feel sure that there are but few who cannot find a considerable number of coins and medals in this collection with which to enrich their own cabinets.

The grading of the collection as to condition has been fairly and impartially done; it is expressed in the Catalogue with moderation, and is rather within than beyond the actual facts.

All electrotpe copies are separately catalogued, and every piece in the collection is guaranteed to be genuine unless otherwise stated, and will be sold without reserve.

Priced Catalogues may be had after the sale from the auctioneers and from dealers in coins at moderate rates.

- NOTE.—The figure of the Emperor, on the reverse of this coin, and his portrait on the obverse, resemble that in Blashfield's great classical painting of Commodus and his Gladiators leaving the Arena. That picture, 10 feet by 6 feet in size, painted in Paris, from sketches made, and data gathered, in Rome, may have been inspired by the discovery of the bust of Commodus, referred to in the note to lot 603. An illustration of the bust may be seen in "Scribner's Monthly," for May, 1879. The painting—now in this country—will, I hear, very shortly be sent to London.
